

Burlington County Community Agricultural Center

Farmers' Market

Shop Jersey Fresh

This year, the Burlington County Farmers' Market is celebrating its third season offering Jersey Fresh fruits and vegetables, baked goods and unique crafts for sale.

Part of the County Community Agricultural Center located at the former Winner Farm at Hartford and Centerton roads in Moorestown, the Farmers' Market offers you a great opportunity to shop locally for produce that's fresh and tasty. Open every Saturday through Nov. 7, the market not only helps our local economy, it also supports our local farmers. While you shop, enjoy live music, as well as educational workshops and programs. And this year, for just $5, you can also learn how to prepare the produce you buy at the market from some of the best chefs in South Jersey. Look for classes led by a variety of "South Jersey Hot Chefs" and other professionals from area restaurants.

Sponsored by the Burlington County Freeholders, the County Agricultural Center also features a Community Garden. In addition, a Community Supported Agriculture Farm that enables members to purchase advance shares of produce grown on a section of the property is leased by Growing Homes, Inc. The Ag Center's primary goals are to foster support for local farmers and to provide residents with an outlet for fresh, healthy and affordable food.
